Your Career Builder Resume - $500K+ Executive VP Europe, Business Development

Dear George McCarley,

While searching CareerBuilder.com, we came across your resume. Your background is of interest to us.

A pioneering organization with a major breakthrough in hiring technology is looking for an experienced and energetic executive who can lead the organization in expanding its business to Europe.

As Executive Vice President of European Business Development, you will create and implement strategic business plans, provide marketing advice and leadership to ensure overall market effectiveness, and identify region-specific solutions in key sales situations. Your area of responsibility includes recruiting continent and country directors, actively targeting prospective investors and managing all phases of the business development process.

The ideal candidate will be a seasoned global executive with more than 10 years experience in international sales, marketing, and business development. Knowledge of global commerce, excellent prospecting and closing, and CEO-level communication and presentation skills are important.

The company has the most advanced employment screening technology in the world. The technology is so accurate that it can profile and identify top performers for any given position. To prove it, they offer employers a "Free Blind Test Challenge" in which they separate a blind group of the employer's top performers from their bottom performers. This is a particularly effective demonstration when done on a company's sales force.

Compensation: Base Salary of $125,000 per year PLUS Excellent Incentives and Significant Equity. First Year Target Earnings: $500,000 with no cap on earnings. Second Year Target Earnings: $1,000,000 to 3,000,000 or more.

Location: You can live anywhere. This is a home-based position. Corporate Headquarters is in the Philadelphia Metro area.
